Two officers plead not guilty to brutality charges

■ Police Officers Association working on fundraiser for two cops' legal expenses

Two West Sacramento police officers accused of assault during the course of a February 8 arrest entered a plea of not guilty during their arraignment last Thursday.

The officers, Donald Donoho and Jeffrey Neuman, face the dual felony charges of assault with a deadly weapon and assault under color of authority. The charges were brought by the Yolo County District Attorney's office, following a separate internal police department investigation which concluded that the officers used excessive force.

Both are currently on leave.

The incident in question occurred while the two participated in the arrest of Jesse Beltran after a West Sacramento traffic stop for "suspected gang activity." Beltran allegedly fled, and batons were used to subdue him. Beltran, a parolee, injured his head during the arrest but did not file a complaint against the arresting officers.

A fundraiser hosted by the local police union will be held on June 24 to help raise money for the officers' legal fees. The event will take place at Our Lady of Grace School on Linden Rd.

Award winners

Staff of the two West Sacramento schools honored among only 52 nationwide by U.S. Education Secretary Richard W. Riley for improving students' achievement, attendance and discipline in a high-poverty environment:

Police use stun gun to prevent possible suicide

By Steve Marschke

West Sacramento police used a shotgun loaded with a "bean bag" to stun and subdue a man threatening to shoot himself on Pecan St. Saturday night.

Police received a call from Linda Jones, the man's wife, at about 10:50 p.m. They found her husband David holding a .22 caliber automatic pistol to himself after what was reported to be an altercation with his wife.

"When officers arrived, he was in a pickup truck, threatening to kill himself," said Sgt. Rick Mayoral. Police asked residents of the apartments across the street to remain in the rear of their residences to avoid injury, and commenced negotiations.

Officer Alan Conwell, who, along with Mayoral, is a trained negotiator, spoke to Jones.

After a standoff lasting over two hours, police felt Jones was ready to shoot himself.

"He said, 'I'm going to do it,' and we saw him tense up with the gun to his head. Officer Purdum fired. That disabled him long enough for us to subdue him and cuff him."

Suspect Jones was held overnight on a medical hold in Sacramento, and could face charges related to the domestic argument.

Mayoral said that a "bean bag" stun gun uses a bag of pellets fired at a relatively low velocity to stun the victim, but does no lasting harm.

Davis supervisor announces she'll run for Assembly

Yolo County Supervisor Helen Thomson, a Davis resident, announced at a press conference last week that she will seek the 8th District Assembly seat to be vacated by Tom Hannigan of Fairfield next year.

Thomson has served on the Yolo County Board of Supervisors since 1987, and served on the Davis school board between 1974 and 1985.

"My years as County Supervisor and school board member gave me the local ties and experience to create a more cooperative working relationship between the state and local constituancies," she was quoted in a May 17 campaign press release.

"As in my past campaigns, I plan to walk door-to-door to reach out to the voters. I want to thank them for their past support, and to ask about their current concerns. For the voters will be an active part of my efforts -- not outsiders -- but the lifeblood of my campaign."

Thomson, a Democrat, is a registered nurse and is married. The 8th district includes Fairfield and Solano counties.

West Sacramento resident and fellow supervisor Michael McGowan, who had also been considering a run for the seat after an unsuccessful attempt at the state senate last year, has announced he will seek reelection to his supervisorial seat.

Term limits will force Democrat Tom Hannigan to step down from his seat in 1997, and he has announced he will head to the private sector.

Partnership hopes for riverfront project

■ Riverfront land partnership seeks building entitlements, hopes to be ready to woo potential developers

By Steve Marschke

A partnership which owns seven acres of land sandwiched between West Sacramento's Raley's Landing and Lighthouse Marina projects (in the "Washington" area of the city's northeast) has completed an environmental impact report and seeks approval for a large mixed use development.

"One of the things driving them to get the entitlements early is that they want to have entitlements on their land in place for the next time we are in line to compete for, say, a state office lease," said city planner Terry Roberts.

The seven-acre parcel is made of properties owned by the Fat family, Colin Fong, George Quan, Dino Beltrami and Wentz Construction.

The city's pending Washington Specific Plan would not change its zoning, but may impose design standards on the proposed development. The landowners do not yet have a developer lined up.

The "One Riverfront Plaza" partnership seeks approval to build a half million square feet of office space in an 18-story building, 170 apartment units and 52,000 square feet of retail and restaurant space.

The land, largely vacant, is bordered by Third St., D St., E St. and the Sacramento River levee.

Friends of the Library

The Arthur F. Turner Branch Library, located at 1212 Merkley Ave. in West Sacramento, is currently exhibiting the art work of students from River City High School. The students have created very competent work under the tutelage of Paul Jones and Joe Schumaker. High school years are a time for students to explore and learn the different techniques, styles and ways of expressing themselves through art before developing individual styles.

Pastels have been used to develop designs using nature as the inspiration for the drawings. For instance, the "Frog on a Calla Lily," "Lillies of the Valley," "Pond Lillies," and still-lifes of bottles, art tools, and candles are all attractively designed us-

City: gas leak not a drinking water threat

City officials reacted Tuesday to a local TV news broadcast by saying that an underground gasoline leak poses no threat to local drinking water.

The contamination of groundwater by gasoline and diesel fuel was discovered near Harbor Blvd. and West Capitol Ave. by crews working on the Harbor Blvd. widening project. Several residents said they were experiencing illness and were switching to bottled water because of the contamination.

"They don't have groundwater (for drinking water) out there," said assistant city manager Carol Richardson. "The water comes from the river."

Richardson said the city does not yet know the source of the hydrocarbon pollution in the water table, but that an Exxon station with gas and diesel is located nearby.

"We don't know exactly the source," she said. "We're not saying it's them, because we don't know for sure."

Groundwater contamination site: Harbor Blvd.

Crews have stopped work on the site near the contamination, but have continued work elsewhere. Richardson said the city must find a safe and legal way to dispose of the contaminated soil and water before proceeding.

Delicatessan signs up at Capital Courtyards

By Steve Marschke

A Togo's Eatery will be the first commercial tenant at West Sacramento's mixed use public housing project on the 2400 block of West Capitol Ave., said Tom Kigar of the West Sacramento Housing Development Corporation. The complex asks $.95 per square foot for commercial space, but Togo's negotiated a discount with its 10-year lease.

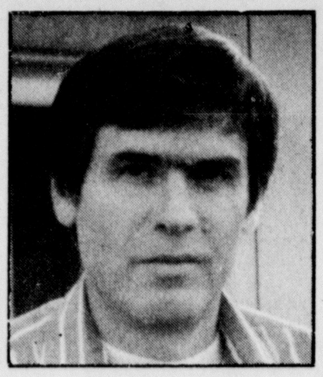

The 28-seat establishment will utilize 1,450 square feet of the commercial space available as part of the 50-unit affordable housing project. The franchise will be owned by Stuart Chang, who owns several others.

The complex was opened last year, and faces a waiting list of residential tenants, but has found commercial tenants difficult to attract.

"We're working with some other prospective tenants," reported Kigar. "With Togo's coming on board, we are getting some additional interest because those possible tenants see additional traffic being generated, increasing their viability."

Chapter 47, in which our hero takes a glorious spill

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Just about every Tuesday evening for the past three years, I have been dropping by the News-Ledger's office on Westacre Road to hand in my column and see what kind of title Steve Marschke, the editor of the paper, will give it. Sometimes I offer suggestions, but because of layout requirements and restrictions on space, Steve is usually the one who has to think up what we both hope will be a catchy little title for that week's column.

Anyway, last Tuesday evening was no different, but for some reason completely unknown to me, instead of jumping in my truck and driving over to the News-Ledger's office like I always do, I decided to ride my bike. There was a good hour of daylight left when I energetically hopped on my Shogun 400, which I purchased last year at a garage sale for twenty bucks, and I told myself that the exercise would definitely do me good.

So, with the warm late-afternoon sun on my back and a refreshing breeze in my face, I happily peddled off to see what Steve could do with a column which talked about such unrelated things as V-E Day, 'Gone With The Wind', and the fact that there weren't any toilets during the Middle Ages.

The trip over was uneventful enough, but after Steve and I had concluded our work, he asked me if I would mind doing him a favor.

"Of course not," I said.

"I'm a little behind tonight," he explained, "and would you mind going over to McDonalds and picking me up something to eat. I'd sure appreciate it."

"No problem," I said, knowing that Tuesday is production day for the News-Ledger and that Steve often works late into the night making sure the paper gets out on time.

To get to McDonalds, I had to peddle across West Capitol Avenue, which turned out to be an adventure all in itself. The light that needed to turn green before I could cross absolutely refused to change, so I said the heck with it and decided to throw all caution to the wind and create my own route. I leaped out into the sparse traffic, raced an old jalopy for the right to be the first one to wheel into the center of the intersection, and then smiled with childlike glee as I came to the sweet conclusion that I could still peddle a bike with the best of them.

Feeling full of myself and wondering why I had ever taken up driving a motorized vehicle when there were still Shogun 400's to jockey, I spotted a tiny six inch curb which stood between me and my final destination. I immediately decided to put an exclamation point on my exhilarating dash against authority (I couldn't remember the last time I had run a red light) by doing something my sons and all their friends are experts at -- popping the front wheel of a bicycle.

'Popping', according to my sons, is an integral part of any respectable young man's bike riding technique. It consists of simply speeding towards a curb -- any curb -- and at the very last second, violently yanking up on the front wheel, which allows one to pop up onto the sidewalk without having to slow down at all. "Piece of cake," I whispered to myself as I began pumping my legs for all they were worth. Then, with the curb only a few feet away, I confidently began yanking -- and yanking -- and yanking. "Oh, s---," I think I cried out as I suddenly realized that my forty-seven-year-old eyes had somehow drastically underestimated the actual height of the curb.

As I began to majestically soar over my handle bars, time seemed to slow down to a snail's pace. My thoughts were numerous, but they all seemed to center around the fact that it was pretty much up to me as to what part of my body was going to hurt the most when I finally returned to the earth. After going through all my options, I decided to try and land on my side, which I somehow managed to do, although I ended up bouncing like a basketball on the rock-hard cement a couple of times in the process.

Unable to catch my breath and sure that I had broken at least a couple of ribs, I suddenly felt a warm and very welcome hand on my shoulder as a concerned voice asked, "Hey, man, you okay?"

When my eyes finally began to focus, it dawned on me that I had somehow come to rest near the wheels of an ancient grocery store cart -- fully loaded with empty soda cans and assorted black plastic bags -- and that its owner was the man kneeling down next to me. "That was pretty cool, man," he added with a friendly smile.

I nodded and forced a half-smile as I also started to feel the pain from the assorted cuts and bruises on my right hand and knee.

"But If I was you," said the kind man, whose clothes were even more torn and tattered than mine, "I think I'd wear a helmet when you ride that damn thing."

Strong individual, team performances continue:

1995 Raider tennis team makes it to sectional tourney, performs well

From River City High School

Not since the autumn of 1988 has the Sac-Joaquin Section Tennis Tournament had participants from River City High School in it. Not until last Wednesday, that is. The drought is over. Led by seniors Hoang Truong and Chanthaphone Inthirath, four Raiders made their way down Interstate 5 to the Section Tournament in Stockton a week ago. Once there, all four put on the type of gutty performance that has characterized this year's team all season.

The week began at the Golden Empire League Championships held at Lindhurst High School on Monday (singles) and Tuesday (doubles). In girls singles, Truong received the third seed and advanced all the way to the semis with wins over Colfax's #2 Katie Coverston 6-4, 6-4 and Golden Sierra's #1 Elaine Duff 6-4, 6-0 before losing to second seeded Marjorie Pretzer of Bear River 1-6, 3-6. Inthirath downed Lincoln's #1 Kelsi Prince 6-1, 6-0 and put up a valiant effort against Bear River's Kim Sides, the fourth seed, falling 3-6, 6-4, 1-6 in a quarterfinal match. Undefeated Erika Riedel of Colfax defeated Pretzer 6-3, 7-5 in the final.

In the boys singles tournament, River City's Bounthay Bouttavong and Ty Fisher both reached the quarterfinals before bowing out to seeded players. #1 Raider Bouttavong avenged an early season loss to Golden Sierra's Jan Koorn 6-3, 6-2 but lost to Bear River's Bjorn Davis 3-6, 0-6. The top-seeded Davis later defeated Colfax's Matt Medlin for the championship. Fisher cruised past Lindhurst's #1 Ricky Xiong 6-4, 6-2 but was upended in a lengthy quarterfinal by Golden Sierra's Brad Bailey, the tourney's third seed, 3-6, 7-5, 0-6. Fisher trailed 2-5 in the second set before mounting a tremendous comeback to force the deciding set.

On Tuesday, Raider Coach Dave Brooks' doubles teams put forth such great effort that Colfax Coach Paul Phillips dubbed them "Brooks' Brigade" in reference to their "never-say-die" attitude. The #1 boys doubles team of Bouttavong and Peter Santizo, seeded fourth, reached the quarters before losing a marathon match to Bear River, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6. The #2 Raider team of Ahmad Fazel and Oleg Loskutoff fell to the surprise team of the draw, Colfax's Brian Stalder and Brian Jackson. Though unseeded, the Falcon pair made it to the final, losing to the top-seeded team from Golden Sierra, Bailey and Koorn.

In the mixed doubles event, R.C.'s rookie duo of Jeff Wright and Douangchanh Lattasima fell to Bear River 4-6, 3-6 but displayed amazing maturity for a pair of freshman. The G.E.L. will undoubtedly be seeing a lot of these two in the next three years. The #1 Raider team, Fisher and Khonthavy Phouanglasy, received the second seed as reward for their combined regular-season G.E.L. doubles record of 15 wins and only 3 losses, including a 5-1 mark as mixed doubles partners. After a first round bye, the pair defeated Lindhurst 6-3, 6-2 in the quarterfinals and the third seeded team from Bear River 6-4, 6-2 in the semifinals. In the final against the top seeded team from Colfax, the Raiders had several chances to finish off the first set but wound up losing in a tiebreaker 6-7 (2-7), then dropping the second set 3-6. Still, making the final was enough to earn the pair a berth in the Section Tournament, the first Raiders mixed doubles team to go since Jeff Prewitt and Lori Cook

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The Sacramento Kings will select 13th in the NBA draft on June 28 and have a real good chance at landing a player who could contribute next season, like Michigan State guard Shawn Respert or Randolph Childress of Wake Forest. If they trade up, they could grab Arizona guard Damon Stoudamire or Arkansas forward Corliss Williamson. The Golden State Warriors had less than a 10 percent chance to land this year's No. 1 pick, but they did!

The Warriors will have a hard decision because the draft is very well stocked with talent but there's not a clearcut choice for No. 1 pick. Four of the top six picks are underclassmen who declared themselves available for the draft.

The second round of the playoffs started with the defending champion Houston Rockets coming back from a 3 to 1 deficit to beat the Phoenix Suns at the buzzer in the best of seven series. The Indiana Pacers, led by Reggie Miller, had to hang on in their seventh game in New York to win the series after leading the Knicks three games to one.

In the Eastern Conference, the Orlando Magic and the Pacers should provide the NBA with some new and exciting action as the Shaq, Penny Hardaway and Horace Grant lead the Magic into the second round of the playoffs and are only four victories away from playing in the finals.

The Pacers have Reggie Miller and 7' 4" center Rik Smits to go along with a well balanced lineup to match up with Orlando. The two teams split this year 2-2 with the home team winning each time. I hate to pick a team in this series, but I have to, so I'll take Orlando in seven games because they have the home court advantage.

In the Western Conference, the Rockets, who blasted Charles Barkley and the Suns into a new orbit, also won their first game of the series against the rested San Antonio Spur, 94-93 and lead the series. I like the Spurs in this huge Texas showdown with Robinson and Rodman banging the boards. The Spurs in seven games!

In the baseball world, look for the Giants to make a move for Kevin Mitchell to play first base. Mitchell is playing in Japan on a one year contract worth $4.5 million, but is very unhappy with life in Japan and claims to have injured his knee in a game. Mitchell hasn't played in three weeks and the Daiei Hawks removed him from their 28-man roster. Kevin, who has lost 20 pounds, is homesick and misses good old American food.

The Giants also made two trades last week with Seattle to free up some extra money ($1.7 million), sending pitchers Salomon Torres and Steve Frey to the Mariners for two minor league players.

See ya next week!!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

What this page is for

It seems about the right time for a few comments about this page, since some issues concerning the opinion section of the News-Ledger frequently come up in conversations with our readers.

First, it should be understood that your opinion contributions to the News-Ledger are important. For this reason, most of your letters to the editor are published. Some are not; generally because the author has written anonymously, or has provided no way for us to verify his or her identity. Letters are never withheld simply because they disagree with the newspaper.

"Fake" letters are fairly common, and are downright abundant during election season or other times of high public passion. What most of these fake letters tend to have in common, besides a made-up author's name and no phone number to verify it, is a desire to publicly discredit someone or something while not revealing their own bias.

Rarely does one of these letters make it to print in the News-Ledger.

Like the letters, most of your "Sound Off" comments are published. But, as you may recall from a year or two back, these can be abused. If callers are not held to some rather strict guidelines, we have learned, some of them will jump at the chance to use the "Sound Off" feature as a vehicle for venom, spread under protection of anonymity.

So criticisms are not allowed in "Sound Off." Many thanks to those of you who call with something constructive, informative or thought-provoking to say.

As for the editorials, like this one: these are not signed, but every word of every one is written by the editor, despite the rumors from time to time of some other member of the community penning a News-Ledger editorial on a particular issue. Not true. The editor deserves all the credit and all the blame for what's written in this space.

The News-Ledger is independent, owned locally and beholden to no one outside the community. Since its inception 30 years ago, when it was founded by Julius Feher and Michael Garten, one of the News-Ledger's main purposes has been to provide an independent point of view on local events through its editorials. Sometimes, this means praise. Other times, it entails criticism or other opinions which anger friends, neighbors or the advertisers who support us.

The News-Ledger reserves a right to its opinions, but respects your right to disagree.

Our goal is to not let these factors stand in the way of speaking the truth that needs to be spoken, while at the same time not going out of the way to cause harm unnecessarily. In other words, the public interest is supposed to come first, and occasionally that means a strong opinion must be expressed.

How well we meet these objectives is something you may decide.

As for political endorsements: some people think it is improper for a newspaper to take a stand on political candidates or issues, but the News-Ledger does not agree. A local newspaper has one of the best seats in the house to watch politicians and political campaigns, and is prohibited by ethics from telegraphing its opinions in the news section. But some people are interested in hearing the paper's conclusions, and those who are may find them on this page.

Endorsing a candidate or taking a position on a ballot measure is not the same as instructing you to vote a particularl way; we can't (and wouldn't have the audacity to) pull the ballot lever for you. So take these opinions for however much or little you think they are worth.

There are people out there who are proud of the fact that they read the News-Ledger's endorsements every election season and then vote the opposite way. That's certainly their right.

The bottom line is that the News-Ledger believes a local newspaper's job is to be outspoken, yet fair, and must be willing to call a spade a spade even when no one else will. Sometimes we have done this well, and other times we've slipped, but we always try to keep these goals in mind.

As always, your response to this -- or your views on any other topic of local interest -- are welcome.

Carriers say thanks

The letter carriers from the West Sacramento, Broderick and Bryte areas would like to extend a great big thank you to all residents that helped make the second annual Letter Carrier Food Drive a huge success on Saturday, May 13. Even the rainy weather could not damper the spirits of the residents or the letter carriers.

It was estimated that the total amount of food collected was around five tons. Almost double the results from last year, the first annual National Letter Carrier Food Drive day. People really do care and it was great to be a part of it.

For those of you that asked where the collected food was to be distributed, you will be happy to know that it helped to restock five different local food closets. Seven cages and four hampers full of the collected food items were delivered to Holy Cross Church where volunteers were on hand to divide the much needed supplies five ways.

A special thanks to the rice growers who donated five 100 pound sacks of rice. Each food closet received a bag to distribute among their needy families. Many residents even delivered their donated items to the back door of the post office because they missed their letter carriers or were worried about the wet weather ruining their food items.

Again, thanks to each one of you that helped us make this a very successful food drive, it shows that our community really does care.

Re-zoning hurts

The decision on May 10 by the city council to rearrange the zoning of commercial properties, that have existed since the 1970's, in spite of the protest of myself and other affected owners, has not only a derogatory effect on the value of our properties it has in my case stopped my planned intent to personally develop commercially the property.

My partners and I have owned the property between Gregory Ave. and Jefferson Blvd. for a long time. It comprises 13 1/2 acres and has been commercial since before we became a city and is ideal for commercial purposes. It has been capriciously changed to 2 1/2 acre house lots which are not nearly as valuable. This is a financial loss to me and the other owners with down zone properties. However the people of Southport also lose. They lose a very desirable location for commercial services. This 13 1/2 acres is bordered by three important roads Jefferson Blvd., Gregory Ave. and Davis Road. It is deep into Southport where a commercial development will greatly reduce the necessity to drive long distances, or go to many different locations.

I sincerely hope the voting citizens of our potentially wonderful city will begin to realize, then understand that it has not been bad luck that has caused progress in the uptown and riverfront area to stalemate, it has not been bad luck that much of our original wealth has been squandered. It has not been bad luck that the value of the uptown properties have diminished. This has been caused by the complete disregard for the views of the people directly involved.

Many of the business people in the uptown area feel that had the council helped that area become the best it could be, it would have become far better than it is, and well on it's way to a new destiny which at it's culmination will complement the area on the other side of the river.

Progress should be lead by business people that have to invest and take the responsibility for success. Instead the council has taken the position that the best course is pseudo erudite studies that stimulate the academic banter that goes on at the council meetings. This approach has gotten us no place, cost a lot of money and put the future of our town in jeopardy.

Sound Off!

The News-Ledger's "Sound Off!" column, featuring your phoned-in comments, has returned. For ground rules, see the box on this page.

This week's calls:

I have a comment to the people who want West Sacramento to have bicycle lanes on West Capitol Avenue. That is a business street and not a "joy" street. The traffic that's on it does not need to have bicyclists in their way. Also true: they don't need to have the big rigs in their way, either. Have a good day.

My opinion is that I'm sick and tired of hearing about Southport. They had to use that bridge twice, once to go out and look at the house they were looking to buy, and once to come back across that bridge to get out of that area. I wonder when the rest of the people of West Sacramento are going to get smart enough to figure out they're ruining the area they travel through to get to that area. . .

Just thought I'd set the record straight on the police log report you made in the May 17 paper regarding an incident on May 15 regarding the dumping of fish. As the man who reported it and witnessed the fish being dumped, I think the citizens should know that the dumping of fish, according to the police officer, is legal since fish are biodegradable. No public dumping has occurred.

The suspect did not pick up the fish. I wonder if the council likes fish?

Apologies from Herr

In response to Mr. Cahill's letter, my sincere apologies to the two members of the planning commission that I unfairly criticized by basing my judgements solely on watching T.V. Appearances are often deceiving and I regret jumping to conclusions.

Another apology to an elderly friend who accused me of insulting the memory of Arthur Godfrey with a "snide remark." I was just struck by the irony that Mr. Cahill quoted Godfrey in this particular setting. Wasn't it Arthur Godfrey who outraged the nation when he fired singer Julius La Rosa in front of the whole country on live T.V.? My friend insists I have poor Arthur mixed up with someone else. Now I'm confused.

As a long time government employee, I can vouch for Mr. Cahill's contention that a public servant must learn to bite a bullet and suffer even fools gladly. A government rep must also learn to carefully weigh each word before utterance as if it were gold dust. (Even then, they are damned if they don't and damned if they do.) I salute those (like West Sacramento City staff) who can walk that tightrope and keep their moral balance.

I'm just not sure these rigors of political diplomacy should necessarily be expected of citizen commissioners who volunteer their time. Perhaps they should be permitted more latitude in expressing personal opinions. Still, some people are just better suited for public life than others. In politics, the best poker player wins.

Since I'm too outspoken and opinionated to play my cards close to the chest, I took Kenny Roger's lyrical advice in his song, "The Gambler." At least I think he was the one who knew when "to fold up and walk away." (Arthur was the red-haired guy who strummed the ukulele and Kenny is the silver-haired guy who strums the guitar. Right?)

Anyway, I'm glad little Jessica Cahill is fine and her dad is still sitting at the players table. Ante up.

Local Items

The Independent welcomes all items of local interest and will thank any resident of Washington for reports turned in concerning matters that pertain to the community or to residents of the town or district. It matters not whether you are a subscriber or an advertiser or neither, items sent in by any resident of Washington will be welcomed.

It is impossible for the editor to reach every home and yet some people many feel inclined to find fault because items of interest are omitted. To obviate omissions call Main 894 or Main 3884 J.

The Sacramento River registered 13 feet 4 inches, U. S. gauge at the bridge, yesterday.

Not a case has been before the Justice Court during the past week and although Washington is wet grass is springing up in the jailyard strong enough to obliterate any tracks that might have formerly been made. It is different in dry towns where the blind pigs keep a well-beaten path open to the calaboose doors.

School Trustees, Mrs. M. L. Manchester and Mrs. Parkinson, returned from San Francisco last Saturday where they had gone to examine desks and chairs for the new school building. Their decision favored a combination desk and chair of the movable type. Bids will not be let, however, for these furnishings until after the contract for the school building has been let. The examination made by the two trustees was only preliminary and final decision will not be made until the end of May or the beginning of June.

A new carpet adds much to the comfort of a home. Locke & Son, 816 J street, have a great stock at easy prices.—adv.

Next Saturday evening the Parent-Teachers' Association will give a card party in the Town Hall for the purpose of raising funds to secure prizes for the children who will make the best showing in gardening. All the children of the public school now have a little plot which they cultivate under the tutelage of Mrs. Wm. Wilson. Following the card party or during its progress those desiring to dance may do so. Entrance will only be 10 cents.

A deputy probation officer seems to be a necessity in Washington because the County Probation Officer is so far removed from the premises. Application has been made to Probation Officer A. A. Powers to appoint a deputy and Mrs. Sevens is reported to be a candidate for the place.

The Steamer Colusa was tied up by the Sacramento Transportation Co. last Monday to be held for orders. Her crew was discharged for the time being, but will likely be recalled in the near future.

Two skeletons were found yesterday afternoon on the old mound on Margaret street, between Fifth and Sixth, by James Lear and Jerry Dillon, who were digging for a cesspool on the Harbinson property. This place was formerly an old Indian burying ground and at various times skeletons have been found without causing comment. The skull of one of these skeletons was in fairly good condition, all the teeth being still imbedded in the jaw bone. The other was more or less decayed. With the skeletons were found a great number of beads.

Last Tuesday Pat Mulholland, after cooking breakfast forgot to turn off his gasoline stove and while out fishing his scow took fire. A neighbor across the river saw the blaze and went to the trouble of extinguishing the fire, endangering his life thereby. Mr. Clark, the pump man at the Natomas, saved the scow from being burned to the water's edge. Pat lost $9.15 which he had in his vest pocket and which was thrown in the river to stop the fire.

A wide variety of carpet patterns for your selection at Locke's, 818 J street, Sacramento.—adv.

P. A. Hart and August Brietzke are about to enter into the wood business on the free market plan in due earnestness. They explain that the free market idea is a very good one, that is to say the yard will be free of entrance to all comers. Both of them are energetic individuals usually with several irons in the fire and in addition are very patriotic at this moment, for on their pile of wood in the free market at Second and Mary streets, an American flag floats to the breeze all the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Swannut of San Francisco spent last Sunday at the Huber home, returning to the bay city early Monday morning.

Relatives of the late David and Mrs. Knox who were in Washington last Tuesday to attend the funeral, have returned to their homes, among them being Mr. and Mrs. A. Rogers of Alameda, Mrs. T. Johnson and Mrs. G. McLaughlin of San Francisco and M. C. Serber of Alameda.

Mrs. M. Stucki has received word from her husband who deserted her about a year ago, leaving her to support three young children. He is located at Youngstown, Ohio, and the authorities have been placed on his trail.

The masquerade ball planned for April 14th by several young ladies of Washington promises to be a most enjoyable affair and a financial success in addition. Many young women are preparing novel costumes and many young men are getting up original ones. There is considerable rivalry because the prizes to be offered are very substantial.

A dangerous runaway took place yesterday afternoon, when a heavy team of horses with an empty wagon ran from in front of the grocery store. The driver had stepped in to get some tobacco and in some way the team became frightened. West along the railroad track they went to Fifth where they crossed and were stopped by an automobile driver near Eighth street. Four horses were attached to the rear end of the wagon and they, too, did some running. Neither horses or harness were damaged in the runaway.

Frank Huber has made considerable improvement to his Jersey Dairy plant lately, having installed the latest pasteurizer and the most sanitary and modern appliances. Huber is now credited with serving only Grade A milk by the health authorities and as a consequence he is enjoying an increase in trade in Washington and Sacramento.

Mrs. Annie Richeson an daughter of Redding, who have been visiting with relatives during the past several days will remain during the ensuing week.

E. H. Edwards of Fairoaks spent a few days of the past week at the Bennetts home.

Mrs. Carrie Thielen returned last Tuesday to San Francisco after a week's visit with her mother, Mrs. Markey.

Curtis Hoffman returned home last Monday after spending a week in San Francisco.

H. Stuber has purchased a houseboat where he will live with his family in future.

Joe Williams, who was at Vorden for a couple of weeks, returned for a few days to Washington, but will return for the opening of the canning season in the asparagus district next week.

James Lear is at home from Wheatland after having spent several days at work in that locality.

Mrs. A. W. Black of San Francisco was a visitor at the Wm. Wilson home during the past few days. She came up for the Knox funeral and may remain during the coming week.

THIRD ANNIVERSARY OF WASHINGTON IMPROVEMENT CLUB WILL BE CELEBRATED ON APRIL 10

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE ORGANIZATION WILL BE RECORDED AND GOOD SPEAKERS MAY BE INVITED FOR THE OCCASION

On March 31, 1914, the organization of the Washington Improvement Club was completed and since then the work accomplished through the organization has been of material benefit to the town.

Many affairs of municipal importance have been promoted and many little mistakes have been corrected which would not otherwise have been done had there been no such organization.

There still remain many objects to be accomplished and many formidable questions to be settled but without the united support of all the taxpayers those things cannot be done.

Some few faithful souls have continuously worked for the benefit of the club and the benefit of the community. They need more encouragement. More of the property owners should be active because the club is of one mind, a mind that contemplates, not the advancement of any individual, but the general good of all the people.

The affair that will mark the third anniversary of the organization of the club will be modest. A quiet feed with some music and other entertainment will be held on the evening of April 10th, and any person desiring to become a member of the club will be welcomed on that occasion.

At the meeting last Tuesday night no returns had been received from Senator Duncan and Assemblyman Tarke concerning the protest registered by the club against the dissolution of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Drainage District, but it was known to all the members that both these representatives were proponents of the dissolution and consequently would take but little notice of the protest.

A supply of gas for lighting and heating purposes is anticipated by the club because workmen of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company have been busy along the waterfront at the foot of Y street, evidently preparing to extend the main across the bottom of the Sacramento River.

Complaint was again made that stock are being staked out in vacant lots and close to the railroad tracks. Should these stock become loose there is danger of accidents with the probability that the owners will be the sufferers.

A letter of sympathy was ordered sent to Mrs. D. W. Knox on the death of her husband, which occurred a few days ago.

A communication was received from Senator Duncan asking the advice of his constituents relative to a bill now before the State Legislature which requires women to serve on juries like men when called. As a body the club refused to make answer but the ladies present were requested to communicate their individual ideas to the Senator.

CANDIDATES FOR FIRE TRUSTEES ARE LAGGING

The election to be held Monday, April 2, for three trustees to conduct the affairs of the fire department is not at all a spirited one.

During the past three years Dave Barry, Ray Peek and F. R. Wilson have acted in the position and did so with credit to themselves and the town.

Lately, Peek took unto himself a wife and moved to Sacramento, since which time he has been a member of the department only in name.

Wilson has not been over active, thus throwing nearly all the work on the shoulders of Dave Barry.

Barry will consent to election but is not over anxious to act because of his experience during the past year.

Two other young men who are interested in the welfare of the town should step into the breach because their services are badly needed and even though there is no remuneration there is a least a certain amount of pride which attaches itself to the position and which helps to make a young man feel proud of himself.

The polls will open at 12 o'clock next Monday and remain open until six.

THE TAXPAYERS OF WASHINGTON UNANIMOUSLY DECIDE TO OPPOSE ASSESSMENT FOR WEIR DAMAGE

THEY BELIEVE THE AMOUNT ASKED TO BE UNJUST, UNWARRANTED, EXORBITANT AND UNDESERVING

At a mass meeting of the taxpayers of Washington held in the Town Hall Thursday evening, March 29th, it was unanimously decided that the imposition of $987.23 on the levee district for damage to a weir at Rocky Point be refused payment.

And further it was decided that the levee trustees must communicate this decision to the War Department, advising that all the damage done the weir was not caused by the dredger that did the work of raising and strengthening the levees.

And further, it was decided that, if it became necessary, the levee district would fight the tax with all due process of law, even to the Supreme Court of the United States.

And further it was decided that great damage had been done the town of Washington by the construction of weirs that had purposely been built by the federal engineers and which weirs had for their purpose the diversion of the natural deep water channel of the Sacramento River to the Sacramento shore, thus ruining the water front of the town of Waashington.

The mass meeting had been called by the levee trustees following receipt of the attached communication:

WAR DEPARTMENT
3rd San Francisco District Engineer Office, United States Army, and
California Debris Commission.
San Francisco, California.
January 3, 1917.

The Trustees,
Washington Levee District,
Broderick, California.

Gentlemen:

Having reference to previous correspondence on the subject of damage to the government wing dam in the Sacramento River at Rocky Point, near Broderick, Calif., I enclose an itemized statement of cost of repairing same and request that you give the matter your earliest consideration.

The circumstances surrounding this case have been discussed by this office with you and your attorneys quite thoroughly, you were afforded an opportunity to make the necessary repairs at your own expense, and when it became apparent that you did not choose to take such action, the United States, by reason of the lateness of the season and the necessity for prompt atcion the premises, proceeded to repair the wing dam at its own expense, as it is authorized by law to do in such cases.

It is requested that reimbursement of the amount, $987.28, be made by you without delay.

Very respectfully,
L. H. RAND,
Major, Corps of Engineers.

1 Inclosure.

The taxpayers of Washington were impelled to the above action for several reasons:

Neither they nor the levee trustees hired the dredger that did the damage.

Neither they nor the levee trustees paid for the work of raising or strengthening the levee.

Even during the progress of the work of raising the levee the captain of the dredger was warned by the levee trustees not to damage the weir.

Rocky Point being considered a dangerous place during flood season the people had the right to tear out anything and everything to protect themselves from flood.

And in the presence and within the sight of several people the damage done to the outer end of the weir was not caused by the dredger but was caused by the flood waters of the Sacramento River — natural causes.

It was explained last night that the dredger was hired by Eli Fourness, J. Harbinson and W. E. M. Beardslee, none of them trustees of the Washington Levee District.

It was explained also that the damage to the outside end of the weir was done before the dredger went to work, therefore relieving everyone for that damage.

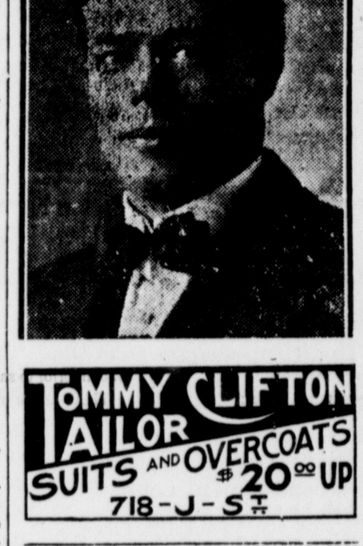

The money paid the Ryer Island Dredger Company for the use of its dredger was raised as follows:

Yolo County	$1,000
Reclamation District 900	1,000
Reclamation District 537	1,000
Reclamation District 811	1,000
Southern Pacific Company	1,000

Mmm Mmm good, says port

Food processing equipment for the Campbell Soup Company plant in Sacramento is seen here being offloaded at the Port of Sacramento.

The 279-ton shipment included a number of very large units, some over 60-feet-long and weighing as much as 26 metric tons each. Originating in Antwerp, Belgium, the heavy equipment for the local plant undergoing refurbishment was delivered on the M/V Star Grindager, owned and operated by Star Shipping, Bergen, Norway. The vessel also brought a large shipment of fertilizer for California farmers during its port call.

Port Director John Sulpizio cited this shipment as a continuing example of how the port serves local businesses. "In the case of these two shipments," he said, "we've provided a continuing benefit to the agricultural economy and a very special transportation benefit to an important employer in Sacramento that is improving their plant."

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF A DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT (EIR) FOR THE ONE RIVERFRONT PLAZA PROJECT

A Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) has been prepared for the One Riverfront Plaza Project in West Sacramento. This EIR has been prepared to address the potential environmental impacts of a proposed mixed use development including 530,000 square feet of office space in an 18-story building, 170 apartment units, and 52,000 square feet of retail and restaurant space. The project is located on about 7 acres bounded by Third Street on the west, D Street on the north, E Street on the south, and the Sacramento River levee on the east. The EIR concludes that there will be significant adverse impacts on the environment, and recommends mitigation measures that will reduce or eliminate those adverse impacts.

Copies of the EIR are available for viewing at the counter, and for sale, in the office of the West Sacramento Community Development Department, Planning Division at 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, CA 95691 (telephone 916/373-5854).

Any affected or interested parties may comment on the EIR before 5:00 p.m. on July 6, 1995 by calling or writing to Terry Roberts, Senior Planner, at the Community Development Department at the above address and telephone number. A public meeting will be held to accept public comments on the EIR before July 6. The date, time, and place of this meeting will be published as a public notice in the future.

Pastor's column:

A gift worth protecting

H. Eugene Miller, Pastor
Seventh-day Adventist Church

A devout Christian author of the 1800s, writing about a person's religious experience, penned these words, "We have nothing to fear for the future, except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us, and His teaching in our past history." It seems to me that this admonition might apply to us as Americans as readily as it might apply to those who are Christians.

For hundreds of years various explorers reported their contacts with what we now know as the American Continent. However, the Mayflower Pilgrims of 1620 were probably the first, and certainly the most prominent, people to come because of religious oppression and persecution.

Although they endured the rigors and hardships of such a perilous journey so they could believe, worship and live as they so chose, they did not establish religious freedom in America. They were adamant that everyone within the sphere of their influence was to worship, believe and live as they did.

It took people like Roger Williams to bring home the need to grant freedom for those who believed differently or chose not to believe at all. Some who helped to establish the principles of religious freedom before and during the shaping of our United States Constitution, its amendments and its Bill of Rights, were those who chose not to worship at all.

I believe that God directs all nations. Yes, even those that are very oppressive. Not that God directs them to be oppressive. But He is the One who ". . . removeth kings, and setteth up kings: . . ."(Dan. 2:21). The same author quoted at the beginning also wrote, "Above the distractions of the earth He sits enthroned; all things are open to His divine survey; and from His great and calm eternity He orders that which His providence sees best."

I believe God led in the establishment of the United States government and its religious freedom. Although other nations have since attempted to more or less copy what we have, ours was the first nation to provide such freedoms in its government.

The keystone of our freedom is in the First amendment to our constitution. It prevents our government from making any religious belief and/or system the nation's religion and from restricting its citizens freedom to choose their own kind and form of worship so long as that worship does not infringe on the rights of other citizens.

If we truly value the freedoms we have, we are responsible for protecting and maintaining those freedoms. It is our responsibility to use our voice and vote in government to stop any attempt to alter or remove those freedoms. We must object when there is an attempt to limit, or remove the freedoms our constitution gives to us. We must be alert to the efforts of those who would try, by force of law, to dictate any aspects of our religious beliefs and/or practices.

This is our government, our freedom and our home. On Memorial Day we remember the thousands of Americans that have died in various wars to protect our right to live in freedom. May their sacrifice not have been in vain.

Free festival for children is planned across the river for Saturday, June 3

The Sacramento Children's Festival, Northern California's premier family event, is returning for its sixth year to celebrate a new theme: "Music and a World in Harmony."

The event, set for June 3, has traditionally drawn crowds of over 100,000 children and their families to Old Sacramento and the Downtown Plaza Mall to experience a free day of hands-on arts and cultural activities.

Festival organizers have planned nine stages of continuous, live entertainment throughout the day, in addition to 14 "imagination stations," special attractions, games, facepainting and hundreds of booths and displays from a variety of Sacramento non-profit, arts, cultural and service organizations.

Scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the festival will focus on Sacramento's distinct visual and performing arts and cultural diversity.

While admission to the event is free, organizers will be asking for a donation at various locations throughout the site to help cover festival costs, which have grown as attendance has more than doubled in the last two years.

Nine stages of entertainment will reflect the musical theme of the festival. Noted performances will include the Sacramento Music Circus, the Sacramento Youth Symphony, and Michael Bayard's "Rhythm Magic," which gets children on stage playing a variety of percussion instruments. Other planned entertainment includes Fantasy Theater, the Northern California Koyasan Temple Taiko, "Musical Magic" with Phillip Tulga, Folklorico Latino de Woodland and "Up from the Roots," an African/Cuban percussion group. The festival will also feature many local singing and dancing groups.

Each year, SEEART develops an interactive, esteem-building program that is presented to thousands of students via the public school system. The educational outreach program and the festival itself were developed to provide arts programming and instruction in Sacramento County public schools that have had to cut back on art programs. This year's outreach program was developed in conjunction with Harmony Arts, a non-profit organization dedicated to bringing the arts to underprivileged children.

A total of 18 elementary schools throughout Sacramento County will receive this program at no cost. Most of these schools are in low income areas. They were selected because the children who attend have been classified as "at risk." This program has been developed for them because they have had little or no exposure to arts or other cultural activities, and it is unlikely they will ever get this exposure in the face of shrinking academic budgets.

Eleven of the 18 schools are in the Sacramento City School District, where the program is considered a part of an anti-drug and alcohol program, offering art and self-expression as tools for getting pleasure in life and enhancing self-esteem.

SEEART, producer of the Sacramento Children's Festival, is a non-profit organization funded through corporate grants and sponsorship as well as private donations. Major funding for the event comes from the City and County of Sacramento. Additional sponsors include Target, KTXL Fox 40, Cellular One, KXOA, Foundation Health, KSFM, KRCX, Sutter Health, KQPT, The Sacramento Bee, Sacramento Bag Company, KNCI, KHTK, KRAK and others.

Corporate support is solicited throughout the year to produce the festival and related event. To help raise needed funds, SEEART will also be selling commemorative t-shirts and buttons on-site.

Festival organizers recommend that attendees carpool or ride RT or Light Rail to the event to avoid parking problems.

For further information regarding the festival, call the Sacramento Bee's "BeeLine" at 552-5252, category 3529.

TENNIS from p. 3

in May, 1987.

Truong and Inthirath also made it to the final in their event, girls doubles, before falling prey to the lobbing tactics of the second seeded team from Bear River, 6-2, 2-6, 3-6. Along the way, the top seeded Raiders pair destroyed Bear River's #2 team 6-1, 6-1, and Golden Sierrra's #1 team 6-2, 6-2. R.C.'s #2 girls team, Mirthala Santizo and Meuy Saechao reached the quarters by beating Lincoln's #1 team 6-1, 6-1, but lost to the third seeded team from Colfax, 6-7 (3-7), 2-6.

The Sac-Joaquin Section Championship Tournament brought together the top two players and doubles teams from four area leagues and the champions from two more. It was the best against the best at the Oak Park Tennis Facility in Stockton. In mixed doubles, Fisher and Phouanglasy were defeated in the first round by a team from Section tennis powerhouse Justin Sienna of Napa, 3-6, 3-6. Truong and Inthirath, however, quickly became the talk of the tournament as they worked their way all the way to the semifinals before falling to St. Helena. In the opening round, they defeated Escalon 7-6, (7-4), 6-3 and in the quarterfinals they downed Summerville 6-4, 6-2. The seniors then faced a pair of Saints who had reached the semis with a bye and a default and were very well-rested. Truong and Inthirath meanwhile had played a combined fifteen sets of tennis in three days and the week's events took their toll, 1-6, 1-6.

This week, the Raiders will complete a rain-suspended match against Lincoln on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at River City to end both the 1995 season and the remarkable high school careers of Truong and Inthirath.

Golden State students honored for women's history month essays

The English Department at Golden State Middle School sponsored an essay contest in March in honor of Women's History Month. Students were asked to write about a special woman in their lives. They are as follows:

Sixth grade: Tariq Yusufzai, first place; Elizabeth Her, second place; Muang Koy Saeteurn, third place; and Robyn Shofner, Stephanie Luna, and Leslie Stevens, honorable mention.

Seventh grade: Huy Truong, first place; Denise Robles, second place; Viengthong Amphonephong, third place; and Rosa Reynoso and Cheng Seng Saechao, honorable mention.

Eighth grade: Angie Tellez and Elena Flores, first place; Irene Her, second place; San Saeteurn, third place; and Maria Lugo, Sally Saetern, Meuy Saetern, and Julie Saelee, honorable mention.

Winners of first, second, and third places were taken to lunch by Mrs. Smith, principal, and Ms. Luttrell, English department chair.

Have fun: ride a train, get robbed

Board the historic Yolo Shortline at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 1, for a scenic train ride from West Sacramento to Clarksburg and back. Enjoy the beautiful countryside from your seat on the train and be witness to a daring "train robbery" by the infamous Sierra Outlaws somewhere along the way.

The Outlaws will relieve the train riders of pre-purchased tokens that will be available prior to the train ride at West Sacramento Parks and Community Services office, 1951 South River Road, and before boarding on the day of the trip. Proceeds from this event will benefit youth programs in West Sacramento. Tickets cost $17.50 and are available at the Parks and Community Services office or by calling 372-9777.

Businesses can also support this fundraising event by advertising in the West Sacramento News-Ledger in the weeks prior to the event. For more information, call 373-5860.

Annual services set for Yolo indigents

Douglas A. Kaplan, Yolo County Public Guardian/Public Administrator and Indigent Burial Officer, has announced that he will hold the 13th Annual Memorial Day services for individuals interred under the direction of his office at the Indigent Burial Monument at Woodland Cemetery. This year's services will also include a dedication for a new addition to the Indigent Burial Monument.

The ceremony will be held at noon on Tuesday, May 30, at Woodland Cemetery, which is located at Cross and West Streets in Woodland. This year, services will be conducted by Pastor Brad Van Sant of the Woodland Presbyterian Church.

"This is an important occasion," Kaplan said. "It is the only formal ceremony in which many of the one hundred people buried in my office this past year will be remembered. I am pleased to dedicate the new addition to the memory of the individuals we serve."

All interested persons are encouraged to attend the ceremony. "This is one of those rare opportunities for the community to come together for a brief time to remember those who might otherwise be forgotten," Kaplan said. "I hope that everyone will feel welcome to participate."

A PETITION has been filed by Charles A. Eaglin in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION requests that Charles A. Eaglin be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. Yolo Basin Foundation:

Local wildlife field trip

Join the Yolo Basin Foundation for a half-day visit to Conaway Ranch on Saturday, June 3, to view "wildlife friendly" management activities. The ranch maintains a significant portion of its land in waterfowl "brood ponds," to provide nesting areas for mallards and cinnamon teal. However, many other species benefit such as ibises, stilts, avocets, and night-herons. We will also see areas that the ranch leaves in a natural dry state for upland habitat. These areas provide nesting areas for ducks and cover for pheasants. During this time of year, the spectacular numbers of winter resident waterfowl are replaced by nesting birds that are more secretive.

This 2-3 hour trip will be an automobile tour with a number of stops to view wildlife habitat and listen to Mike Hall, Wildlife Manager for Conaway Ranch tell what is being done.

According to John Kemper, field trip coordinator, "This half-day trip offers an excellent opportunity for the public to get a look at how private land managers can manage their land to benefit wildlife."

Please meet at 8:30 a.m. at the ranch headquarters on County Road 25 between Davis and Woodland. From County Road 102 (Poleline Road), turn right on Road 25 if you are coming from Davis. Travel 3 miles to the ranch headquarters where Road 25 ends at the Yolo bypass levee and park in the headquarters parking lot. We will carpool from there. The field trip is open to the public. A $3 donation is requested from all trip participants to cover costs. Children (under 12) and current "friends" of the Yolo Basin Foundation are free.

The Yolo Basin Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to inspiring and educating people about wetlands and other native Central Valley wildlife habitats. Call the foundation at 756-7248 if you need additional trip information. You may also write the foundation at P.O. Box 943, Davis, 95617 for information on future trips.

Watercolors are used to paint the still-lifes and abstractions using color harmonies such as complementary orange and blue or purple and yellow contrasts as well as bright red on blue black in a monogram design.

Pencil is the medium of the surreal combinations of forms and shapes juxtapositioned to create intriguing ideas and visual excitement such as the face in the window next to enlarge part of a portrait and torso drawing. There are also two well-drawn portraits rendered with pencil.

Landscapes are often a favorite subject for artists and high school students are no exception. There are several mountain landscapes and close-ups of waterfalls and streams. The paintings utilize generalized forms and simplified colors and shapes.

Egyptian themes are used by some of the students. The motifs and designs of Egyptian history have been synthesized into attractive compositions.

The exhibit will remain on view through the month of May and is well worth a few minutes to see the work of our local schools. The exhibits are sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Food distribution for low income

Food products will be distributed to low-income eligible residents on Saturday, May 27, at Golden State Middle School between 8:30 and 10:30 a.m., and at Sam Combs Activity Center, between 9 and 10 a.m.

Items will include butter, corn meal, refried beans, and rice. Participants are asked to bring a bag to carry food home. For more information, please call the Yolo County Coalition Against Hunger at 758-6821.
